

SOA REPOSITORY

SOA Blueprint

A structured blog by Yogish Pai

This is the repository that enables automating the governance process across all products. It stores all the relevant product metadata defining the business processes, requirements, and simulation parameters. In addition, enterprise architects can also upload to this repository the enterprise standard documents consisting of patterns and architecture frameworks. The SOA repository should also enable both IT and business to modify the business process to match their internal governance.

Copyright

Copyright © 2007.

The author grants a non-exclusive licence to everyone to publish this document in full or part by acknowledging the source. Any other usage is prohibited without the express permission of the authors.

